Scott Sapounas and his wife were looking to get into the health and wellness space after selling one of their businesses in Charlotte, NC. Their previous bank was unfamiliar with the wellness space, and Countybank was recommended by another financial service as a good bank that knows various industries. “Countybank was willing to take the time to research and understand the business model and industry in order to help us make the right decision,” said Scott. “They take the time to understand the needs of the borrower.”

Countybank was able to provide an SBA loan to help Scott and his wife cover construction upfits and equipment costs. “The Countybank SBA lending team is an excellent partner, not only helping with the financial aspects but also the emotional rollercoaster and wild ride that comes with starting a new business venture,” said Scott.

iCRYO Mauldin, scheduled to open in late January, is a health and wellness space that focuses on prevention and recovery. They will offer full body cryotherapy, red light therapy, an infrared sauna, compression therapy, iV infusions, and body sculpting.
